in July 2007, the government heart disease supremo professor Roger Boyle declared that statins are so safe and effective that ideally every man over 50 and every woman over 65 should be taking them.

And in the end game, there has to be a total lifting of all sanctions and both bilateral sanctions, unilateral sanctions, and economic sanctions.

In September, the European Union announced its goal for all 27 member states to achieve carbon neutrality by 2050.

In the end, the European Union's plan was rejected by the United States and China, who saw it as a threat to their economic dominance.

In the end, the European Union's plan was rejected by the United States and China, who saw it as a threat to their economic dominance.